The Barbers Won't Shave Deputies at Emporia

WICHITA, July 3.—A strange tale, since confirmed by Dr. Cave, of West Wichita, and others, has just been brought to town by Dow Weemple, who resides out near the Cartright school house, eight miles southwest of here.

A family by the name of Ward live on the old Miller farm, and had a stalwart, fine looking boy of 19 years of age. To all outward appearances the lad was in good health and spirits until Saturday. Then it is said he drove a team of fine horses into Oatville and attempted to drive them into the store there, saying he didn't want to lose sight of them, for he expected to die soon and wanted to take the team with him to the other world.

About midnight Saturday young Ward quietly slipped out of the house with a loaded shot gun in his hand. He found an axe and with these weapons proceeded to a field where his horses were grazing. Calling the animals to him he kissed them passionately and then swung his axe and brained first one and then the other.

Ward then returned to the yard and entered a coop where he kept confined a lot of fine poultry and pigeons. He wrung the necks of the entire colony of fowls and then going outside, locked the door and crawled back in through the hole used by the chickens as a runway, dragging the gun in after him.

Once inside he set fire to the house, lay on his side and placing the muzzle of the gun against his left breast, pulled the trigger with a sick. The gun was too long and in getting at the trigger the muzzle was turned to one side enough to miss the heart and tear out great bunches of flesh and break the left arm in numerous places. He was not killed by the shot and either repenting of his rash act or not liking to strangle in the smoking chicken house, he crawled back out through the same small hole that he had entered in the first place where his parents found him.

Young Ward told all about his killing the horses and pigeons, but gave no reason except that he did not want to leave them behind.

SHE WANTED A HUSBAND BAD.

A Wellington Woman Wanted a Man and Was Willing to Pay for Him.

WELLINGTON, July 3.—William Gatlin, the young man who was married to Mrs. Emma D. Kirkland a few days ago, seems to be a very enterprising young fellow. He is 22 years of age and his bride is a widow, 32 years old and the mother of five children. Just before their marriage Mrs. Kirkland made him a deed to 160 acres of land.

Their marriage seemed a strange one at the time and since then facts have developed that make it appear more peculiar. None of the neighbors in the district in which the bride lives have ever seen or heard of the groom, and her marriage was a great surprise. It is thought Gatlin is a tramp.

Several years ago Mrs. Kirkland grew infatuated with a stove peddler who made his headquarters at her home for some time and who promised to marry her. He went away, however, and she waited two years for his return. Upon being convinced that he had proved faithless she offered a deed to one-half the farm to another man if he would marry her. The second man also proved to be stony hearted, and so, as a last resort, she gave young Gatlin a deed to the full 160 acres.

The people in the vicinity think she is not in her right mind and is being imposed upon by an adventurer. Her friends are hoping to get the deed she made to Gatlin set aside, so that the land may be kept for the benefit of the children.

CHARGED WITH GIVING DRUGS.

A Salina Woman Brings Suit Against a Firm of Dentists.

SALINA, July 3.—Mrs. Mary L. Hutchinson has brought a very serious complaint against the dentists, Winking & Leeds, in which she charges them with an assault with intent to injure her health in administering deleterious drugs and liquors during an operation upon her teeth, which caused physical illness and bodily disorder.

Messrs. Winking & Leeds have given bond in the sum of $400 for their appearance before Judge Laukin. They say that the charge is unjust and untrue, and that they are confident that they can establish in the trial that they have been guilty of no unprofessional conduct.

TO MEET HER FIANCÉ IN AFRICA.

A Reno County Girl Going to Africa to Be Married.

HUTCHINSON, July 3.—Miss Arabella Fernie, accompanied by her father, mother and sister, have started on a long journey to meet her future husband, Mr. E. F. Tarlton of Johannesburg, South Africa. The Fernies will travel extensively through Europe before going to Africa. Mr. Tarlton and Miss Fernie will be married some time this fall, the date is not yet set.

The prospective bride and groom were playmates when children, their parents living neighbors in England. The Fernies came to America and at last settled in Reno county and are one of our substantial families. Mr. Tarlton sought both health and fortune in South Africa. He is a prosperous diamond merchant.

BILSTOW SELLS HIS PAPER.

The Salina Republican is Purchased by M. B. Sampson.

SALINA, July 3.—A sale has been effected by which the Salina Daily Republican and the Republican-Journal, with the large publishing establishment connected therewith, passed from the hands of J. L. Bristow to M. B. Sampson late consul to St. Johns, New Brunswick, under the Harrison administration. Mr.

Sampson was for twenty-one years editor of the Salina County Journal.

J. L. Bristow disposes of the business in order to give his undivided time to the Irrigation Farmer. He will still make this city his home and will publish his irrigation paper from here.

WOULDN'T SHAVE DEPUTIES.

The Barbers' Union at Emporia Takes a Hand in the Strike.

EMPORIA, July 3.—The deputies here guarding the Santa Fe property are unwelcome visitors, and are not treading a path of roses. The Barber's union added to the discontent by passing a boycott on them. Saturday the deputies went from shop to shop in futile endeavor to get shaved. Some of them found a non-shaven shop, but the others are still unshaven and unshorn.

Conductor Nunn Dropped Dead.

WINFIELD, July 3.—Conductor E. E. Nunn dropped dead at the Southern Kansas depot the result of heart failure. The railroad company made up a special train to convey the remains to Chanute, which place was the home of Conductor Nunn.

NO MORE WHISKY.

A Graduate of the Keeley Institute Tells of His Emancipation.

It seems impossible that an intelligent reader of the public press can doubt the efficacy of Dr. Leslie E. Keeley's treatment for drunkenness and the morphia habit, after the publication of such a deluge of testimony as has appeared during the past three years, but there are still a few who have not faith in Dr. Keeley, for the reason that they have absolutely refused to read or hear the evidence of those who have had experience and know of what they speak, probably the only witnesses qualified to testify.

So happy are the "graduates" in their emancipation from bondage to King Alcohol that they continue to relate their experiences, and tell of the virtues of the cure. We clip from an interesting letter contributed to the Wamego Times the following:

Although a young man, the habit of "taking a friendly drink" with acquaintances grew to such an alarming extent that liquor finally obtained thorough control over me, and although many hundred miles away—from the Pacific coast—I concluded to return home and take the Keeley treatment, at the Topeka Keeley Institute, that I might be away from boon companions and associates with whom I had nearly wrecked my constitution.

The effects of the treatment are truly wonderful and cannot easily be told on paper. Very peculiar sensations are experienced, especially during the first few days. I saw nothing of men being made sick or crazy by the treatment and never found any one who has, though some one who never had seen a Keeley Institute will very gravely relate to you how much longer for days with one foot in the grave as it were, it requiring a special dispensation of providence to bring them through alive. Occasionally one is nauseated by attempting to reconcile the Keeley cure and John Barleycorn to each other's company, but not to an extent comparable with what he has suffered in every previous spree. In fact it is generally conceded by those who have tried it, that there is no place where one goes through the sobering-up process with as little discomfort as at the Keeley Institute.

The sensations referred to are anything but disagreeable, and discouraging. Probably about the second day one will find himself wishing for a drink and will realize it has been a long time (probably several hours) since he has thought of whisky; how this can be it's hard to understand; he has been accustomed to feel the need of another drink about as soon as the last has had time to distribute itself through his corporeal frame and to fighting the demand off for an hour or two in order to keep his feet, but now he seemed for hours to have actually forgotten how good Kentucky whiskey is and that it is all free and when he does indulge his appetite again it doesn't seem to taste just right, then it begins to dawn upon him that the Keeley remedies are "getting in their work."

Next morning he forgets his appetizer before breakfast, and when he comes up for 8 a. m. treatment, the doctor asks if he feels as though he needed any liquor this morning he is astounded to find how easy and seemingly perfectly natural it is for him to say "No, thank you, I don't care for any," and he will probably pinch himself to make certain if he is, and that he hasn't lost his senses. As the day passes it occasionally comes to his mind that he hasn't wanted whisky and he fully realizes that the old craving against which he has waged unequal warfare alone has gone.

It is hard for him to believe that such a change can come over him. He feels entirely free from the degrading influence of liquor; his thoughts are purer and better and tend higher; his inclinations and tastes are different; his mind is clearer, all sensations of confusion of thought are gone, the world about him seems brighter and better and he feels the invigorating effect of his treatment in every organ of his body.

Good Associates at the Institute.

The Keeley patient is not permitted to confine his thoughts entirely to himself as there is always a lively and congenial class of fellows in the class and much of their time is passed in encouraging and encouraging each other.

I met there merchants, lawyers, physicians, farmers, clerks, office men, train men, laborers, mechanics, etc. Associations were greatly enjoyed, and all seemed anxious to assist each other. There are pleasant reading rooms in connection with the institute for the use of the class, supplied with reading matter, writing material, games, etc., and you meet there graduates of long standing, who never fail to cheer up those seeking relief, by assuring them that none but good effects follow the treatment, and that these effects are permanent.

Many morphine cases are treated, although the remedy is different; the process of the treatment is similar and the results are the same. Many ladies are among this class. These are treated privately. Since my sojourn at Topeka the institute has been removed to a large and beautiful residence on West Sixth street—a beautiful part of a beautiful city. The new quarters have been elegantly fitted up, and it is said to be one of the most pleasant and best equipped of all Dr. Keeley's system of institutes.

After Treatment.

Seven months of personal experience

since taking the treatment, and the experience of scores of earlier graduates whom I have met, confirm me in the belief that the good effects realized are permanent, these being absolutely no craving or thought of liquor, it seems entirely wiped out of the mind. There is, of course, no padlock on the throat; I could take a drink if I choose; could also take carboic acid if I choose. Were this impossible I should consider I had good grounds for a damage suit against Dr. Keeley. Whether I could take a drink is not the point. I simply have no inclination to drink; I feel no necessity for the stimulant and were I not perfectly willing to leave it alone under these circumstances, I should never have sought relief from the craving appetite through the Keeley cure, and am physically strong, and my system is perfectly clear from the effects of several years free use of liquors of all kinds. I never felt better in my life, and I believe the treatment has benefited me in many ways.

Discredit has in many cases been brought upon Dr. Keeley's treatment by the failures of his many imitators, commonly called "fake cures." The public has read of the matter in such a careless manner as to fail to discriminate between the real Keeley treatment and that of the imitators, and it has become a common practice to call every institution pretending to cure drunkenness a "Keeley cure." The fact has been established beyond contradiction that Dr. Keeley's treatment will effectually and permanently eradicate the liquor and morphia craving, while it seems to be about as effectually demonstrated that the imitation treatments are complete failures. As Kansas is afflicted with many of these imitation cures, it is well that all who seek medical relief exercise due caution.

The real Dr. Leslie E. Keeley remedies and treatment are administered at but two places in the state, Topeka and Kansas City, Kan.

I would be pleased to talk with any person who has ever thought of the necessity of taking the treatment, and I believe I can convince the most sceptical of the benefits to be derived from the excellent Keeley cure. R. K. HUGHES.

VINETTE AT ST. LOUIS.

His Army Seems to be Growing Rapidly at That Point.

The following appears in the St. Louis Republic in relation to "Colonel" Vinette's command of commonweathers, which left Topeka about ten days ago:

"The industrial armies of Colonel Vinette and Captain Geary are receiving additions almost hourly at the foot of Tyler street. Yesterday about twenty men belonging to Vinette's regiment came in, and by this morning several hundred more are expected to arrive by boat and on foot. Major Jones, of Vinette's brigade said yesterday that the railroad tie-up was interfering considerably with the progress of the rear of the armies, but he thought they would all arrive in time for the start."

"Hogan's Montana brigade, numbering several hundred, is expected in time for the mass meeting tonight."

"A member of Geary's regiment, of whom only forty-five were in yesterday, said they had to refuse five female recruits at Kansas City, the experience of General Kelly having taught them that the presence of the gentler sex in the ranks was liable to cause trouble."

A Grand Feature

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is that while it purifies the blood and sends it coursing through the veins full of richness and health, it also imparts new life and vigor to every function of the body. Hence the expression so often heard: "Hood's Sarsaparilla made a new person of me." It overcomes that tired feeling so common now.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, perfect, harmless, always reliable and beneficial.
